

The Tennessee Tribune

Volume 22, No. 13, 3 Sections

THURSDAY, March 31-April 6, 2011

$1.00

Embracing Your Divine Destiny A Commentary by Jason Curry

God loves us, and has a God great, inspiring and long-lasting destiny for each and every one of us. In Ephesians 1:3, we may find evidence of this fact for the Apostle Paul writes: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ. According as he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be hold and without blame before him in love. Having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, according to the good pleasure of his will. (Italics mine). In his letter to the church at Ephesus, he did not address the specifics of our destinies. His intent was to make the case that God had something special planned for each and every one of our lives. It is we who must fast and pray, seek God face, and attempt to discern God's will so that our destiny's in education, law, politics, business and a host of other field may be realized. At the heart of our divine destiny; however, should always be a desire to use some or all of our talents to glorify God and to give thanks for the blessing bestowed upon us.

It is important to note that some will attempt to prevent us from reaching the divine, prosperous, uplifting and inspiring destiny that God has for each and every one of us. For example, Esau was trying to glorify God when his brother Jacob stole his blessing and his birthright. Sampson was a person ordained by God; however, he met a person named Delilah, who attempted to take away the gift that God had given him. Job had miserable friends as comforters who made a mistake by suggesting that his misfortune was a result of sin. Unfortunately, there are some people around us who will attempt to steal our blessings, take away our joy, take away our peace and ultimately prevent us from embracing the marvelous blessing that God has for each and every one of us. In order to continue to work toward our blessing in spite of the negative efforts of other we must "trust the Lord with all our heart, and lean not to our own understanding. In all of our ways acknowledge the Lord, and God shall direct our paths (Proverbs 3:5-6). When we remember that we have a divine destiny, when we know what is the author and finisher of our faith, when we believe that we can do all things through Christ who strengthens us, we will truly inherit our divine destiny and be all that God intends for us to be.

The Reverend Dr. Jason Richard Curry is Dean of the Fisk Memorial Chapel at Fisk University. He can be reached at jcurry@fisk.edu or www.fiskmemorialchapel.com.